

HORSE GETS
LOOSE; CAUSES
EXCITEMENTOwner Should Tie up His
Steed in the Future

A few nights ago a lady resident of Clinton street got the fright of her life and there was good reason for the alarm. Peculiar noises around her house broke her slumbers. She got up and tried to solve what it could be without looking out of her chamber window. Finally she decided to start something and began crying out as loud as she possibly could. Her cries were strong enough to wake up her next door neighbor who was up and dressed in quick time. In a moment he was on the job. Nothing doing in the way of burglars. To his amazement he discovered that a horse of one of the nearby residents had broken loose from the pasture and in wandering around had put his foot through the front door steps. He was unable to free himself and this caused the variety of funny noises that startled the neighborhood. Jack did the honors in releasing the animal and relieving the woman, the same time advising the owner of the steed to tie up his broncho after dark to save veterinary expenses and also a carpenter's bill for repair work. He certainly was "Johnny on the spot."

HAS BECOME
A NUISANCEResidents of the South End Claim
They Have no Police Protection

Editor of The Herald:

On Wednesday night a party of soldiers disturbed the residents of the South End in the vicinity of the South Mill bridge for upwards of an hour by indulging in a free fight, as well as indulging in some of the choicest of profanity. The brawl began at 11:30 o'clock and continued for upwards of one hour.

During this time one of the soldiers was knocked insensible and for a time looked as though he would not recover. It was then that some of his comrades became alarmed and it was suggested that if he did not come to, the proper thing to do would be to throw the body overboard.

When the disturbance was at its height, a resident of this section opened his window and spoke to the belaguerers, saying he would notify the police. With an oath one of the soldiers yelled if he did close the window at once he would blow his head off.

For upwards of an hour, we were kept awake by the fighting and the foul talk of these men, who judging by their talk came from the forts at Portland, Me. Then they moved down the road to the toll gate and I suppose the people lower down the road got their share of it.

The residents of the South End pay their taxes and naturally expect to have some police protection, but I am sorry to say they have none whatever. Two policemen are kept on the upper end of Water street for the protection of the dens of infamy that are allowed to flourish. They are given police protection, but the residents of this section of the city are forced to be annoyed by their dumpings after closing up time. It has been no uncommon thing of late for a party of soldiers as soon as they reached the South Mill bridge, to commence their work of carousal and annoy the people along on the road from there to the toll gate. I am told that Major Urch has frequently made reports to the police that men in uniform were lying in the roadway and on his lawn in an intoxicated condition, but no heed was paid to these reports.

It would however seem as though the people of this section of the town were entitled to some consideration at the hands of the police authorities.

TEN CONVICTS
ARE PUNISHEDMen Given "Slap Barrel," Which is Extremely Painful--Rumored
One Died

JACKSON, Mich., Sept. 6.—Ten convicts, leaders in the bull pen riot of Tuesday, were flogged today by the slap barrel method. Rumor has it that one prisoner died from shock, but Warden Simpson entered a denial and refused to comment on the floggings.

In the slap barrel method the convict is stripped then he is placed across a barrel with his face downward and a sheet drenched with salt water is placed over his bare back. Then a water soaked strap is applied until the victim has the feeling of one stung by 100 hornets.

The sheet protects the flesh slightly but the torture is rendered doubly agonizing by penetration of salt water into the wounds.

This development in the art of flogging was discovered in Marquette, Mich., prison of the northern peninsula many years ago. The corporal whipping post and the modern slap barrel method. Rumor has it that one prisoner died from shock, but Warden Simpson entered a denial and refused to comment on the floggings.

A score of other prisoners were flogging up. Leather covered hands and then the wrists are tied to a bar just above the floor. The feet are held down by other straps. The victim rests his arm by standing on tip toe.

Several hundred of the convicts returned to work under guard of the five companies of militia.

Following the removal of the convicts it is thought that the trouble will continue intermittently until the present system of management is changed.

COAL NOT TO ADVANCE

BOSTON, Sept. 6.—That there is no apparent cause for a rise in the retail price of anthracite coal within the next few months, and that the prices which range now will probably remain constant was the gist of a statement made yesterday afternoon to the New England Retail Coal Dealers' Association in the Revere House by Pres. W. A. Clark of Northampton.

Mr. Clark does not by any means assure the public that there will be no further rise, but the conditions at present, which he has carefully investigated, indicate that the consumer has no particular need for worry.

Many people are paying more than 25 cents a ton over the price last year, but this is due to the fact that the dealers who supply them are buying the coal at a premium and then in turn demanding a natural increase in price to cover the additional cost. There are many dealers who are doing this simply to fill orders made months ago so that their word may remain good with the customer.

Some Dealers Get Enough.

This is admittedly necessary in many localities if the public is to be supplied at all. There are dealers right here in New England who have done everything within their power to get coal for their customers, but their efforts have availed them nothing. Then, on the contrary, there are other dealers who seem to be right in the swim of things and have their bins practically full of anthracite.

Pres. Clark's assurance that the general run of coal should not rise in price during the next few months was made in a report of certain investigations, which he and Sen. Charles H. Haskell of Norwich, Conn., have been making in New York and Pennsylvania. Pres. Clark states that the heads of the originating companies had all given him assurance of good faith and of keeping their regular scale of prices.

He says the originating companies have not as yet boosted their prices to the retailer and therefore he can find no fault with them other than that they are shipping to the Western dealers rather than to the East.

As far the retail price portion of anthracite is concerned, he adds, the indications are that it cannot change. The large coal traffic which has been going West will soon stay in the East as the result of the natural conditions. Just as soon as the big grain crop starts to move East coal will begin to come to New England.

The one element which can ultimately cause a rise in price is the difficulty in shipment, which seems bound to arise within two months or so. "By Nov. 1, I believe," says Pres. Clark, "that the country will have to face the greatest shortage of car facilities for shipment that it has met since 1908."

"Even now certain railroads in New England are being hard hit for enough rolling stock to carry all the goods of fered to them. What are they going to do two months from now? That is the only question which is bothering me so far as price goes."

Pres. Clark's statements in regard to the probable range of prices were entirely personal opinions advanced at the request of newspaper reporters. As an association the organization did not discuss prices openly.

THREE KILLED FROM DIRIGIBLE

Soldiers Carried Up When Austrian Craft Breaks Away, Fall Exhausted.

BUDAPEST, Sept. 5.—Three soldiers were instantly killed yesterday by a fall from an airship which was engaged in military maneuvers. The airship was being prepared for an ascent and was held down by more than one hundred soldiers. A heavy wind prevailed at the time and a sudden gust carried the airship away. It rose rapidly and all the men released the ropes but three. They held on until exhausted, then fell one after the other.

TWENTY HITS IN A MINUTE'S TIME

The night target practice at Fort Stark was resumed on Thursday evening and practically completed.

On Wednesday evening before the fog set in the 156th Company made a perfect score, with twenty hits out of twenty shots, but they took one minute, 17 seconds which is not fast time. On Thursday the 156th Company, which is the local company, scored fifteen hits out of twenty in daylight practice and in just one minute. This is considered very fine shooting.

Today the New Hampshire Coast Artillery will arrive at the Port and go into camp for drill and instruction. The state troops in case of war, would handle the big guns six and twelve inch, the regulars being infantry companies who use only the three inch battery, for protection of their mine field.

FAILURE IS EXPLAINED

LONDON, Sept. 5.—The failure of Great Britain to secure better results at the Olympic games at Stockholm, is explained today in the report of the British Olympic Committee which says:

"It was not mere specialization which enabled Sweden and the United States to do better than the British empire. The only winner of three gold medals came from Finland. The Pentathlon and the Decathlon were won by an American who showed quite extraordinary allround ability. Sweden won all the points in the modern Pentathlon and obtained more points than any other nation in the whole of the games by sedulously cultivating every form of physical ability possessed by her inhabitants, and her strength and capability as a nation have been enormously increased in the process."

The lack of serious interest in the games on the part of the British public is declared by the committee to have greatly affected the enthusiasm of the British competitors. Owing to want of funds these also were deprived of opportunities for training under trainers acquainted with the best scientific methods.

It rests with the British public says the report, whether his state of things shall be remedied in the future.

GREAT DEMAND FOR NEW PREPARATION

Accomplishes Its Mission

Nervous, Debilitated Men and Women Are Made Healthier and Happier Through Use of Tona Vita.

No other preparation has ever been sold in America for which there is such a tremendous demand as "Tona Vita." The medicine was unknown in this country until a few months ago, and today the sale of the tonic is so large that it has been impossible to prepare it fast enough to supply the sudden and great demand. Druggists from all over the country are sending in wires about as follows: "Rush more Tona Vita last shipment all gone. Sale tremendous." No medicine could be so tremendously successful unless it had a mission to accomplish and was accomplishing that mission. It is making tired, debilitated, men and women happier, healthier, and better prepared to cope with life.

Nervous debility is the curse of this age. It is produced by the strain of modern life. The symptoms of this disease are little vitality or ambition; tired, dragging feeling of both mind and body; nervousness and depression of spirits; stomach and liver trouble, constipation, headaches, poor circulation, and susceptibility to coughs, and colds. Tona Vita is relieving thousands of this miserable condition. It will positively do this, where there is not some serious organic trouble. In a remarkable short time. The very first dose will bring improvements, and each following dose adds health and strength. The tonic must prove satisfactory or the price is returned by our recognized agent. Don't drag around half dead any longer. What Tona Vita is doing for thousands it will do for you.

Lee's Rhubarb Laxative the assistant preparation, is the finest family laxative in the world. The natural medicinal qualities of rhubarb, nature's purest, and best laxative are obtained in this medicine. Lee's Rhubarb Laxative will not harm the weakest constitution and is therefore ideal for children. It is very pleasant to the taste. Boardman and Norton has the agency in Portsmouth for these two great preparations.

CONVENTION OPENED*Interesting Program of National Association at New London.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Sept. 5.—The delegates to the Atlantic Deeper Waterways Convention were on hand promptly for the business session of their annual convention today, as the first of a series of meetings which will be held at Long Island Sound, where the first meeting was a salute from the heavy guns as a special courtesy of the War Department. The thousand delegates or more, with their friends, also witnessed sub-culture target practice, a drill by the artillerymen, and a dress parade of the companies at Fort Wright.

The business at Hotel Griswold was opened early by Calvin Tomkins, commissioner of docks and ferries in New York City, who presided. Captain W. F. Jacobs, commander of the revenue cutter Itasca, spoke on the relation of the revenue cutter to the merchant marine. He told how the revenue marine came to be established under the first President in 1776; of its growth as a protective army to the early constabulary trade of the young nation. He sketched its development, its changes, and the broadening of its duties which finally came to include the right of search and the prosecution of violations of the laws of coastal waters. Captain Jacobs spoke of the present service, and its great assistance in constabulary trade. In the past year, he said, 392 vessels were reported for violations involving penalties of $551,624. In 1910-1911, 547 lives were actually saved by the service, 4160 persons in distress were taken aboard cutters, 862 vessels in distress assisted whose cargoes were worth $72,995,636.

General Hugh Bancroft spoke on "Boston's Port Development," giving a short description of the work now in progress at that city as a means of securing greater facilities. In the way of comparison of the trade of Boston, he quoted liberally from the harbor figures of incoming and outgoing vessels, and the value of their cargoes, and those of Hamburg and other European ports. He said the great project ahead was the creation of the first unit of a public water terminal equipped for handling both passengers and freight, which will be large enough to accommodate the biggest ships that float. He said that Boston had real ambition to increase its foreign trade, and the development of that city as a world port means a great deal to the continuance of the industrial supremacy of New England.

Minley Acker, president of the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce, spoke on "Transportation and its Effect on the Cost of Living." He said he doubted if any important industry had been subjected to more unintentional misrepresentation and prejudice than transportation and transportation companies. He said that the cost of three divisions of necessities of life is directly influenced by transportation charges. These are food, clothing and shelter. He said that food products had steadily increased in price because these products have become scarcer through natural causes, or because the cost of production has been directly increased owing to higher wages paid for labor and shorter hours of employment. The farmer, the dairyman, the fruit grower, and the poultry raiser have each learned to compute the actual cost of their product in which human labor has had a part, and each have determined to make that product pay its share of that labor, and at the same time yield a living profit.

On the matter of clothing also, Mr. Acker said that labor enters very largely into the cost. The same reason he ascribed to the higher costs of dwellings.

BOURNE WATCHING HIS LAW
He Remains in Washington to See That the Parcel Post Starts Right.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—Senator Bourne of Oregon, author of the parcel post scheme, now enacted into law, is staying in Washington in order to assist the Post Office Department in launching things right. Parcels post in the mornings and golf in the afternoons, such is Senator Bourne's programme. His latest step in relation to the subject of Federal aid in the construction of highways is provided for in the agricultural appropriation bill. As chairman of the joint committee having the matter in charge, Senator Bourne has taken steps to obtain important data from each of the States regarding road laws, progress in highway improvement, and the views of governors regarding plans for Federal cooperation. Senator Bourne is also taking the same initial steps which he took in his study of the parcel-post problem, namely, through United States ambassadors and ministers, endeavoring to obtain information from other countries as to their methods adopted and results obtained.

New York, Sept. 6.—After delivering his first speech in New York city as the Democratic nominee for the presidency, Governor Wilson left on the 8.30 o'clock train this morning for Seagirt, N. J.

Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 6.—Sparks set fire to the plant of the Monroe county oil plant early this morning, and a series of explosions followed, blowing the dome from an 8000-gallon tank of benzene and destroying other tanks. Firemen are fighting the blaze. About 32,000 gallons of benzene are burning and the loss already is $50,000.

Columbus, O., Sept. 6.—Governor Johnson of California, the Progressive nominee for vice-president, who will address today's session of the Ohio Progressive state convention, arrived here this morning and went into conference with James R. Garfield, Walter F. Brown and other Progressive leaders. Following his addresses and the report of the various committees selected yesterday, the convention will select a full state ticket. Excepting the governorship, delegates declared that no slate had been prepared in advance for presentation to the convention today. Arthur L. Garfield of Rhyria still seems to be the popular choice of the delegates for the nomination for governor.

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 6.—The "bull moose" has invaded St. Paul today in great numbers. The occasion is the arrival of Colonel Roosevelt, who is scheduled to deliver an address at the Minnesota State fair today. The former president and his party arrived here at 4.30 from Des Moines, where he addressed the Progressive state convention yesterday. A reception committee greeted the colonel at the Union station. Following breakfast and informal reception was held, after which Colonel Roosevelt went into conference with the Progressive state central committee.

THIRD TICKET IN IOWA.

Progressives Nominate Full List with Stevens for Governor.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Sept. 5.—With John L. Stevens of Boone as their nominee for governor, Iowa Progressives in convention here yesterday put a third-party State ticket into the field. Mr. Stevens was named by acclamation just as Colonel Roosevelt was entering. The speech of Colonel Roosevelt interrupted the State ticket nominations, but after he left the following were named: Lieutenant governor, W. S. Spencer; auditor, C. F. Meyers; Elkador; treasurer, N. P. Nelson; Lucas; secretary of State, H. A. Morey; Waverly; railroad commissioner, J. H. Stevens; Mason City.

The platform indorses that of the national convention, asserts the belief in popular rule, and declares that the "Progressive party is here to stay."

RUSSIANS IN TROUBLE.

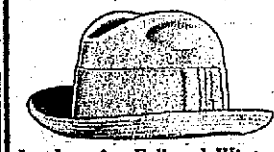

LONDON, Sept. 5.—A private telegram from Sebastopol reports a mutiny of the crews of the Black Sea squadron, according to the Constantinople correspondent of the Chronicle. The warships bombarded the forts, which replied vigorously and sank one of the attacking vessels. The heavy gunfire continued as the despatch left. It is stated that one cruiser escaped and reached Burgas, Bulgaria. No confirmation of this report has been received here from other sources.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 5.—The mutiny in the Black Sea squadron of the Russian fleet has led to the arrest of the naval judge advocate at Sebastopol by the secret police, who accuses him of showing partiality toward the mutineers. Snapshooting has existed for a long time in vital circles that the trouble among the bluejackets have been fermented by police spies who have mingled among the sailors and instigated them to create disturbances.

Of Ohio.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 6, 1912.

WHY HON. JOHN D. LONG WILL VOTE FOR WM. H. TAFT.

In "Zion's Herald" last week, Ex-Secretary of the Navy John D. Long gave his reasons why he is going to vote for William H. Taft for President. It is an interesting article and quite long. He sees no good reason why the president should not be re-elected and on the other hand many convincing reasons why he should be. From what he has done, Taft is as fairly entitled to a second term as was Lincoln, Grant, McKinley and Roosevelt. He has earned it by honest, faithfully capable and valuable service. Secretary Long admits that the Republican party has not always been wise, and that its leaders have not all been saints, but that party has made the United States of America the best governed, the richest and the happiest land in the world. Starting at the mile-post of the abolition of slavery the record all along the mile posts of great events, the progress has been splendid, and President Taft's record is true to it, absolutely true to the best and soundest Republican principles. His progressiveness is of the sane kind, not eccentric like Roosevelt. He is not merely content with preaching progress; he practices what he preaches. His administration is prolific with constructive legislation; the pure food laws, the protection of railroad servants, and the miners and the children in factories; pushing the great work done on the isthmus, the vigorous enforcement of the laws; the consideration of the currency problem; the opening of Postal Savings banks; the introduction of improved business system in the departments; the introductions of the proper method of studying and pursuing tariff revision.

"I hazard the suggestion," says Mr. Long, "that no one can go in this way over the administration of President Taft and the details of the work of each governmental department and not be impressed and satisfied with the fidelity and efficiency with which the public duty has been performed. Again I ask: Shall not the head of such an administration have the second term which has been given to his predecessors, no one of whom has been more loyal to his trust, more honest in his course, more deserving of confidence?"

The Ex-Secretary of the Navy gives his views why he cannot support Woodrow Wilson and the Democratic ticket and platform in general. Their election would produce "high tide and disaster" as did Democratic control from 1892 to 1897. As regards Roosevelt he thinks the Ex-President is not only seeking to override for his own aggrandizement an unwritten law that should be sacred to every patriotic citizen but in doing so is trampling on his own pledged word and breaking faith with the American people, his treatment of Taft has been unfair, selfish, and violative of the obligation of their mutual relations. "Worse still," he is striking at the very foundations of our constitutional government. Because he is doing this, he is leading his followers "not toward reform but toward revolution and chaos." As the first step, he "seems to be deliberately doing all he can to smash the Republican party." His mouth is full of virtuous commonplaces to which every body assents, and of promises which he could not by any possibility perform. "His cry against bosses is wonderfully funny, in view of the fact that there is one such colossal boss what an army of workers are employed in all the department of the servant to those who were with him postal business, they realize that Una few months ago have refused to follow him into his new party, which he invented only when he found he couldn't boss his old one—like a small boy who won't play if he can't be first." The most and worst he can do is to turn the government over to the Democrats. "For the foregoing and other reasons," says John D. Long, "I vote for Mr. Taft."

The Cleveland Plain Dealer says it is said here at no swear words in the Japanese language. It would never do for Japan to establish a republic and conduct a presidential campaign.

The New York Mail says these are bad days for "frame-up." Police, political, senatorial, judicial or other, they don't stay framed up. The hammer of public inquisitiveness knocks them all to pieces.

The Cleveland Leader says gradually the terrible past of Woodrow Wilson is being revealed. It has been discovered that he once sang in a glee club. Next we may hear that he was once a ping-pong champion.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat says Col. Roosevelt, who is nothing if not modest, says he has to go back to the period of the civil war to find a political platform equal to his own. The colonel is a Lincoln one day and a Washington the next.

It is understood that the voters in several wards will between now and election day make a demand on some of the candidates for representatives as to where they stand on several measures that are to be advocated for the betterment of our city.

The New York Evening World says: That is to say, in the operation of moving baggage and food (without which the men and guns or an army are worth how much?), in that element of warfare which has ever been the first and foremost care of every great general, our professional army officers showed themselves mere children! When, Napoleon, declared that "an army marches on its belly," when Wellington admitted that his chief business in an Indian campaign was rice and bullocks, because "if he had rice and bullocks he had men, and if he had men he could beat the enemy," these two great generals were stating one of the simplest, most fundamental rules of warfare. "A man who never held a gun or marched a step can recognize its plain sense. Our regular army officers failed properly to solve problems involving the factors of the traction power of mules, the weight of overloaded army wagons and the character of country roads." Why? How much a mule can haul, or the proper load for an army wagon, or the nature of an American country road, do not strike one as profound or insoluble problems for officers supposedly trained to meet field complications for more intricate.

Good manner count as much in sport as in other walks of life. The true sportsman uses all his skill to defeat his opponent, but he is always considerate of him and courteous to him.

Mr. Harrison of Chicago, Mr. Preston of Baltimore and Mr. Gwynor of New York are all in a position to abstain from 1892 to 1897. As regards Roosevelt he thinks the Ex-President is not only seeking to override for his own aggrandizement an unwritten law that should be sacred to every patriotic citizen but in doing so is trampling on his own pledged word and breaking faith with the American people, his treatment of Taft has been unfair, selfish, and violative of the obligation of their mutual relations. "Worse still," he is striking at the very foundations of our constitutional government. Because he is doing this, he is leading his followers "not toward reform but toward revolution and chaos." As the first step, he "seems to be deliberately doing all he can to smash the Republican party." His mouth is full of virtuous commonplaces to which every body assents, and of promises which he could not by any possibility perform. Becker's Profits.

A not unnatural suspicion attached to those phlegmatic bank accounts which have been discovered to be credit of Police Lieut. Becker of New York and his wife, Becker, whose salary was something like $25,000 a year and whose "savings" during the past nine months aggregated at least $90,000. There are only two possibilities in a case of this kind. Either the man "made" it in speculation, or he got it in graft. Which is the more plausible? To "make" money in speculation at the rate of, say, $120,000 a year, regularly and uninterruptedly, means a remarkable run of good luck, or an unforgotten source of "inside information." It means such close devotion to the business of buying and selling stocks on margin that the player of the game has no time for anything else. Any amateur speculator who takes an occasional fling in the market knows what even such casual indulgences signify in the matter of time and consideration. But Becker was no "piker," no mere occasional customer in the street, if his bank books can be accepted as evidence of the regularity with which he "saved" money. He must have been a veritable plunger, and one can hardly see him attending to his duties in a manner satisfactory to his superiors—he was only a lieutenant and had a certain formality of routine to observe—and simultaneously playing this Wall street game on the scale which would have been necessary to pile up winnings at the rate of at least $10,000 a month. Such an explanation of the remarkable "savings" that have been found to his credit is too severe a tax upon the imagination for acceptance. Furthermore, if this money was made in what for the purpose of the case may be termed honest speculation, why was it scattered among so many banks, and even under assumed names, with every evidence of a desire to conceal the fact of such exceptional prosperity? Surely there is no disgrace, in New York, which lives to the tune of the ticker in speculating in Wall street. A police officer has no special reason to be ashamed to be found prospering in such an enterprise. He could hardly have been afraid to lose his job. Why, then, has he been so much further advanced under same high tariff when he left office?

Senator La Follette has calculated that the capitalization of trust combinations was $3,784,000,000 when Mr. Roosevelt took office and $31,672,000,000 when he left office. The tariff remained the same but not trust, extortion under the tariff.

What it cost the trusts to elect Mr. Roosevelt in 1904 is becoming known. What it cost the people to reimburse the trusts is even better known.

When Mr. Roosevelt tells the voters of Vermont that "Our proposal on the contrary, is to help the farmer and at the same time lower the prices of his products to the men who actually consume them," it is only fair denial, the belief will prevail that some other source existed for this stream of wealth, a source more closely connected with the regular daily job of the man. For even this witness says that it is his belief that Becker made $25,000 in the last four years in Wall street. Perhaps he did. Where did he make the rest of the money that has been found to his credit?—Washington Star.

Back to the Market Basket

Foreign price statistics accord with our own in showing that while there has been an advance in all countries during the past dozen years, the advance in the United States is much greater than anywhere else. If general causes like cheaper gold production explain the general advance, what are the special causes which explain the special advance in this country?

The third term candidate is under a particular obligation to explain. He promises more relief to the people than they can get elsewhere. He shows anyone else is going to make his country a more tolerable place for the poor to live in. And he judges the country's administration more than half the period in which this special rise in the cost of living has been.

When Mr. Roosevelt left office in March 1909, the people were paying a government figures, under his administration, 10 per cent more for all commodities than they were paying when he took office in September, 1901.

They were paying 25 per cent more for woolen blankets than during the previous ten year period; 27 per cent for cotton blankets; 32 per cent more for shoes; 43 per cent more for women's dress goods; 64 per cent more for drillings.

They were paying from 61 to 109 per cent more for preserved meats from 20 to 150 per cent more for steel products entering into common use from 21 to 96 per cent more for lumber, from 29 to 36 per cent more for window glass; from 33 to 45 per cent more for house furniture.

These are all articles affected by tariff protection and by combinations have been enhanced by high tariff when Mr. Roosevelt took office. How came they to be so much further advanced under same high tariff when he left office?

Senator La Follette has calculated that the capitalization of trust combinations was $3,784,000,000 when Mr. Roosevelt took office and $31,672,000,000 when he left office. The tariff remained the same but not trust, extortion under the tariff.

Praise This Remedy For Consumption

If the voluntarily written words of grateful people living in all parts of the country, praising Beckman's Alternative, a remedy for the treatment of coughs, colds, throat, and lung troubles are to be believed this medicine is certainly doing a vast amount of good for such sufferers. We state one but facts and give to you the names and words of praise of those who declare it benefited them in many cases coupled with the writer's faith. This is a sample taken from statements that it restored them to many:

St. Mary's Academy, O'Neill, Nebraska. "Gentleman about seven years ago I was attacked with the dreaded disease Tuberculosis. I coughed incessantly, could not sleep or eat, even could not speak out loud and could do no work. I had three hemorrhages, blood most of the time, and suffered with night sweats, fever and chills. A specialist of Columbus, Ohio, pronounced my case hopeless.

"Nearly five years ago I heard of your Alternative and procured some at once, with the result that I soon found myself restored to health. For as past four years I have been able to continue my teaching, and though I have always had heavy school work I am also able to perform much manual labor. I consider your medicine, if faithfully taken, a most excellent remedy for consumption." Mother Superior permits this testimonial.

(Signed) SISTERS MARIE, Sisters of St. Francis. Beckman's Alternative is effective in Bronchitis, Asthma, Hay Fever, Throat and lung troubles, and is up-building for the system. Do not contain poisons, opiates, or habit-forming drugs. For sale by Benjamin Green, and other leading druggists. Ask for booklet telling of recoveries and write to Beckman, Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for additional evidence.

STICK TO YOUR JOB

In the current issue of Farm and Fireside appears the following advice to farmers' boys. It seems to apply in every line however.

No boy or man will ever be a success if he drops a plan or quits work on anything before he has brought it to a successful end.

"True success in life is simply the laying of no job unfinished. When a boy I hated to leave a job half done and then go back to finish it. It seemed as if I hated it worse than ever then, and it was more tiresome.

Learn to plan every detail first and then carry each step to a successful finish.

I have worked for men who were not sure what they meant to do. We hired me away from one half job to another. We spent half the time walking around all because the boss had no plans outlined for the day. We finished fired out, with III-the done."

He further alleges that Mr. Burrage promised to indemnify him for any losses on account of buying the stock in the event that the purchase by the New Haven was not carried out. He says the stock has depreciated.

OF THE CORNER STONEMethodists Pay Jews for Taking Out
Corner Stone After Building Was Sold--Coins Still An Issue.

The contents of the box taken out of the corner stone of the old Methodist church may be settled by a law suit. The Methodist society did not make any provisions for retaining the corner stone when they sold the church to the Jews for a synagogue, and when they removed it, the trustees of the Temple of Israel demanded that it be opened in their presence as they claimed it belonged to them. The Methodist wardens thought that all records belonged to them, but the box was opened and a demand was made for a money settlement and $100 was agreed upon. The Methodists also to replace the stone. Now the Jews consider that the coins found in the box were of special value and demanded them in addition to the $100. A settlement was attempted, but the matter is now in the air pending a report of a committee from the Temple of Israel, who on Thursday took the coins into Boston for an appraisal. The paper records will all be replaced in the box which will go in the corner stone of the new church which will be laid on Sunday. The Methodists want to return the coins, but this has not been settled as yet.

SOUR STOMACH? GOT
INDIGESTION ALSO?"Caes Diapensin" Makes Upset
Stomachs Feel Fine in Five Minutes

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food, or have a feeling of dizziness, heartburn, fullness, nausea, bad taste in mouth and stomach headache—this is indigestion.

A full case of Pope's Diapensin costs only fifty cents and will thoroughly cure your out-of-order stomach, and leave sufficient about the house in case some one else in the family may suffer from stomach trouble or indigestion.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula plainly printed on these fifty-cent cases, then you will understand why dyspeptic troubles of all kinds must go, and why they usually relieve sour, out-of-order stomachs or indigestion in five minutes. Diapensin is harmless and tastes like candy, though each dose contains power sufficient to digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat, besides, it makes you go to the table with a healthy appetite; but, what will please you most, is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for biliousness or constipation.

This city will have many Diapensin cranks, as some people will call them, but you will be cranky about this epidemic stomach preparation, too, if you ever try a little for indigestion or gastritis or any other stomach misery.

Get some now, this minute, and forever rid yourself of stomach trouble and indigestion.

PLANS FOR NAVAL REVIEW WILL NOT BE CHANGED

Secretary Meyer having declined to be different from that pursued in recent years and is intended to develop the great naval review in New York harbor next month. It is said at the Navy Department that there is little probability of any change in the program. The Secretary's decision was announced to a representative of the Mayor Gaynor just before Mr. Meyer departed from Washington for his summer home in Hamilton, Mass. It was based upon consideration for the welfare of the sailors of the fleet, the heavy task to be imposed upon the officers to meet the obligations of the extensive program outlined by the committee on entertainment and finally upon the interference with the winter's work of the fleet that would result from the detention of the big ships in New York harbor for more than three days.

This winter programme, is material-the commander-in-chief, will drop in Charleston harbor, while the remaining four vessels will proceed to the Gulf of Mexico, and visit Pensacola, Mobile, New Orleans and Galveston.

EXETER LETTER

The mills of the Exeter manufacturing company opened Tuesday morning after being closed since August 24. In that period there was many repairs made to the machinery and various parts of the buildings.

The superintendent Chester D. Hatch, who has been confined to the cottage hospital for the past few weeks with an attack of typhoid fever, has been discharged and is rapidly improving in health.

The company employs about 500 hands. The mills at Pittsfield are also run by the same company, have also resumed operations after a respite of the same period.

There were many who overlooked the senatorial fight for a nomination in the twenty first district which centered between James Rowe of Brentwood, and William D. Ingalls of East Kingston in the primary election yesterday. The returns from the towns in this section, Exeter, Brentwood, Hampton, Kensington, Kingston, Newfields, and South Hampton, showed that Ingalls led by a vote of 80 to 82 and indications are that he won the nomination.

The democrat vote was light in all the towns. The interest now shifts to the election in which the Progressives are said to be ready to put a ticket in the field.

The local friends of John Scammon were pleased that he won the nomination from Howard G. Lane of Hampton by a total vote of 933 to 764, while Brown of Seabrook had 115 in the senatorial fight in the twenty first district. Mr. Scammon was running very close till the early hours of the morning when the Exeter vote was declared, which gave him a majority of 36, making a total majority of 169.

Rockingham county section of the council district gave Arthur W. Dudley of Brentwood a vote of 933 to 647 or James Thompson of Hocksett a total majority of 306. Exeter however was for Thompson by a vote of 61 to 198. There was much interest in the contest in this section. The result practically rested with the vote of the city of Manchester in which Thompson got his majority.

The Sept meeting of the Cutler club will be held at Cutler's Sea View house at Hampton beach Wednesday, Sept. 11, notices to that effect having been received here, today, from the president, John H. Noyes of Plaistow, Samuel Bell, who is a graduate from the Harvard Law school and also of Portsmouth and who last June passed the New Hampshire bar examinations has entered the office of Eastman, Scammon & Gardner.

The funeral service of Mrs. Sarah M. Cammett, aged 80, widow of Stephen Cammett, who died at Hampton beach, Monday, was held yesterday afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Abigail Clarge at Hampton beach, conducted by the Rev. Edgar Warren of Hampton, and in charge of Undertaker Warren J. Prescott. The Ladies' quartet of Hampton rendered selections and the burial was in Hampton, Mrs. Cammett was a resident of Exeter but died at the beach, where she went for a visit with her daughter.

"CASCARETS" FOR A SICK, SOUR STOMACH

Gently Cleanse Your Stomach, Liver and Bowels While You Sleep

That awful sourness, belching or acid and foul gases; that pain in the pit of the stomach, the heartburn, nervousness, nausea, bloating after eating, feeling of fullness, dizziness and sick headache, means a disordered stomach, which cannot be regulated until you remove the cause. It isn't your stomach's fault. Your stomach is as good as any.

Try Cascarets; they immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter and poison from the intestines and bowels. Then your stomach trouble is ended. A Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent box from any drug store will keep your stomach sweet; liver and bowels regular for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

alias James Abbott, who escaped from the state hospital at Concord, yesterday, was at one time a resident of Stratham, and the event is of some local interest. He was in 1904, arrested in Portsmouth and taken to Keene where he had a charge against him for horse stealing.

Owing to the enforced engagement of Dr. Fred S. Towle and Ernest L. Cupitt of Portsmouth, who were on the committee to make arrangements for the Ladies' day outing at the Rockingham county Republican club which was to have been held at Hampton beach, Saturday of this week, it has been necessary to postpone the event to a future date.

MAY HAVE ANOTHER CARDINAL

Bishop Thomas F. Kennedy, rector of the American College in Rome, is one of the prominent prelates who is likely before long to receive higher honors from Pope Pius X. In fact, he is prominently mentioned as the next American cardinal, whose appointment was foreboded in the foreign dispatches of recent date.

It was stated that Pope Pius desired to have an American cardinal located right in Rome as a member of the Sacred College to keep the Holy See posted on the American view of matters coming up for adjudication.

Mr. Kennedy's career as rector of the American College has been marked by thoroughness in executive management and brilliancy in diplomatic affairs. At the great consistory in Rome last November many of the introductory and concluding ceremonies were held at the American College, and Dr. Kennedy performed the difficult duty of handling the functions with rare judgment and priestly dignity. It is no surprise that his name is prominently mentioned in connection with another red hat for the United States.

The picture will be painted by some noted artist and will be of life-size dimensions.

FOOTBALL NEXT

Schoolboy Athletes are Anxiously Awaiting the Referee's Whistle

Only a few more weeks' and the diamond will be discarded for the gridiron. The schoolboys are beginning to figure on the possibilities of a championship eleven while the coaches at the colleges have laid plans for the annual campaign.

It will not be surprising if there is a little misunderstanding this year owing to the rules being changed and the lateness with which copies of the rules were issued.

But before the season closes the game will once more be on a settled basis.

It is strange at that how few of the old timers who were in the game when throwing was allowed and when it was a case of plug, before getting out and rushing up was allowed, are strong for the old rules.

But the changes in the game have come for good, and guards back, hurdling and such plays will live but in memory.

THE OBSERVER

I like to sit beside the road
A wait for the mail.
Each day the driver will unload
His treasures without fail.
And, be the weather dry or wet
A stand in the row,
Amanda Boggs is there to get
A letter from her beau.

I've watched her now for quite a while
And lately I perceive
She's lost her laughing, careless smile
And seems inclined to grieve
I can't help sharing her regret.
That seems each day to grow.
I wish Amanda a Boggs would get
A letter from her beau.

Her eyes were never made for tears
However light their mist,
These ought to be the happiest years
In all her birthday list.
Her feet should dance and never set
A solemn pace and slow.
I wish Amanda Boggs would get
A letter from her beau.

Why, there's Amanda 'cross the way,
With sunshine in her face!
I haven't seen in many a day
Such joyous, girlish grace,
I share her happiness and yet
I'd never let her know
How glad I am to see her get
A letter from her beau.

A BOSTON GIRL'S BUDGET.

New Era Opens for Hub's Public School System—Ten Thousand Dollar Superintendent Will Carry Forward Predecessor's Work—Telephone Operators Fear Ban on Powder Puff—Chicago's Old Maid Query Interests Metropolis of Bluestockings—Agreed that a Woman May Still be Young at Thirty.

BOSTON, Sept. 6.—The ten thousand dollar salary which P. B. Dyer, Boston's new superintendent of school has begun to draw is naturally played up large in the newspapers, for it is big money for a teacher to get in New England. Salary allowances are more generous in the open handed middle West where Mr. Dyer came from. Boston, of course, was obliged to loosen up to get a high grade man for this important position. That, however, which interests several thousand women teachers at the beginning of a new era in the city's educational history is not so much the compensation received by the superintendent as the probable establishment of working conditions of which no right minded teacher can complain. Boston schools in the past few years have presented a curious anomaly. In many respects they have been very greatly improved. They have been to a considerable extent freed from political influences. The welfare of one hundred thousand children has been sought in many admirable innovations. Much has been done to help the teachers. Yet discontent, suspicion and, at times, actual hysteria has been characteristic of a large section of the teaching force. Apparently clear thinking and intelligent women instructors have told lurid tales of the conditions of terrorism under which they have worked.

How much better there has been for such tales it would be hard to say. Perhaps very little. Yet the outside observer has been forced to conclude that in one important respect the management of the schools has been rather weak. It has been lacking in democracy. It has been too much of a benevolent despotism. To correct this fault is Supt. Dyer's chance.

Speaking of benevolent despotisms, hello girls of this neighborhood hear that a ban has been put on powder puffs in the New York exchanges, stany of them hereabouts say frankly that a similar order in Boston would be regarded by the operating force as an unfriendly act. Says one girl: "We sit here throughout the entire day and some of us the night, answering questions and calling dozens upon dozens of numbers, all the time catching glimpses of our faces in the nickel mouthpiece. When we see our faces getting tired and smudgy why then, of course, we simply reach for the convenient little puff and brighten up a bit." If this is all there is to it the telephone girls are hardly to be blamed. Possibly in exceptional cases it isn't. A man's outlook on this vital question, which affects hundreds of workers in the four northern states of New England is expressed in an interview by the tariff superintendent of the New England telephone company, who says: "I don't think this order will come to Boston for the simple reason that I don't think any of our girls are subject to this habit. In fact I have never seen any of our girls with powder or cosmetics on their faces. The rules for general conduct would naturally prohibit this in Boston, for the young ladies are ordered to come simply dressed and unadorned with jewelry." All which sounds sensible.

When does a young woman cease to be young? A recent edict of the Chicago Y. W. C. A. has decreed that no woman who is 25 years old may be classed as a young woman. That action has aroused discussion at Boston's tea tables. Contributors to Sewing Circles in the local newspapers are airing their views on the topic. One person has declared war against the chronological method of determining ages. "When a woman begins to have grey hair," according to this viewpoint, "then she is no longer young. The age signs may begin to appear at 18 or at 40. Such organizations as the Y. W. C. A. in determining who is young and who middle aged should make a thorough search for white hairs." This position has not yet been accepted by the local branch of the philanthropic association which for some years past has regarded age 30 as about the dividing line. Women under this mark may live at the familiar building in Berkeley street. "As for rooms, we try to obtain them for the woman of over 30 a more respectable lodging house where the rent is low. With a list of these houses such as is furnished by us a woman ought to find it easy to get a place to live. And furthermore a woman of 30 is not so apt to fall before the temptations that beset so many lodging houses." The discussion is far from being closed. What appears settled, however, is that a woman becomes an old maid quicker in Chicago than in Boston—five years quicker, according to Y. W. C. A. figures.

"Why we lost," will be the burden of Othello of Bay State suffragists returning from the Ohio campaign. Thick in the fight has been Margaret Coley of Boston, militant, heckler, organizer. During the summer's activities at suffrage headquarters in Copsey Square she has been missed. The experiences gained in Ohio will be valuable in once more forcing the issue in the staid old Commonwealth.

ETHEL ANGER.

WHOLESALE CUT IN MAIL SERVICE

If the postoffice authorities of New England are not laboring under a burden of complaints just now, it must be because business men are very much occupied. Under general order number 1979 of the railway mail service of date of August 20, a sweeping cut of small pouches is put through whose parallel, it is said, is not remembered in the postal service.

To put it into figures the discontinuances of the pouches total 442. This affects in the vicinity of 1000 postoffices in New England for some of these pouches cover many places. It is common talk that these discontinuances are made to meet the exigencies of the weighing of mails to be begun the present week, and on the basis of which contracts with the railroads for the carrying of the mails or the next four years are made.

It is possible of course, that some of the pouches may be restored at later dates but meanwhile business men are subjected to vexations and unnecessary delay.

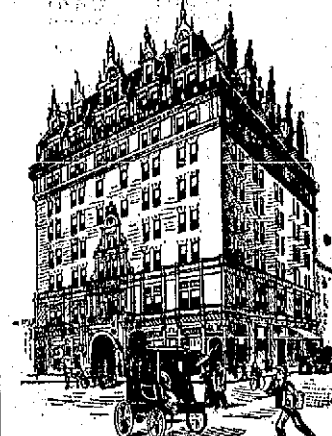

The cuts in connection with the local office have already been announced and include several mails between his city and nearby towns.

COURTHOUSE TO GO

Old County Building at Cassville, Mo., to Be Replaced.

In Old Edifice, Subsequently Captured by Federalists, the State Seceded From the Union—Was Built in 1854.

Cassville, Mo.—By voting bonds for $40,000 to which will be added a bonus of $10,000 collected by the citizens of Cassville, Barry county is to have a new courthouse and the old building, which is a relic of the Civil war will pass into history.

The old courthouse, which was a two-story brick building, was used by both the Union and Confederate armies. Had the fight not been so warm in this section the Confederates might have claimed it by right of discovery, for they were the first to occupy it. The building was first used by the Confederates as a meeting place for the legislature which was convened here October 31, 1861, after being driven out of Neosho by the approach of the federal army.

It was at this session the state was seceded from the Union and much other important business was transacted. The articles of secession were written and introduced by the late Senator George Graham Vest. The meeting was attended by seventy-seven members. W. S. McConnell, the member of the legislature from this county, being forced to attend to make the quorum.

Mr. McConnell's refusal to attend at first was because of the fear of the federal troops and sympathizers who were in this country in great numbers.

Gov. Claiborne F. Jackson, who was elected governor in 1860, was at the meeting and after the acts of secession were passed made a speech from the south door of the old courthouse informing the people of the action of the legislature and notifying the people that they then composed a part of the Southern Confederacy. Senator Vest also delivered an address.

After the speaking and justification the appointments of Maj. Gen. Sterling Price of the Missouri state guards and N. W. Watkins, Thomas A. Harris, John B. Clark, W. Y. Slack, A. E. Steen, J. H. McBride and James S. Raines, as brigadier generals were confirmed. General Slack was killed at the battle of Pea Ridge, about 20 miles south of Cassville. The session lasted for eight days, adjourning November 7, because of the approach of federal troops, to meet in New Madrid in March, 1862. The meeting at New Madrid was never held, however.

At the meeting of the legislature Miles Vernon of Leclaire county presided, he being named for the place by M. C. Goodlet of Johnson county. John T. Crisp of Jackson county was secretary; John T. Tracy of Cole county, assistant secretary; James McCoun of Johnson county, enrolling clerk, and M. R. Johnson, sergeant at arms. Charles H. Hardin, later governor of the state, was a member of the senate and was the only one voting against the secession of the state in that body. A meeting of the legislature was also held at Pineville but no record was kept of what was done at that meeting.

During the meeting of the legislature the command of Gen. Sterling Price was stationed on Port Hill, on which is now located the Cassville high school building.

The old courthouse is, perhaps, the oldest one in the state, having been constructed in 1854.

AUTO COWBOYS STIR TOWN

Speeders Arrested After Using Guns and Lariats in Streets of Marshall, Mo.

Marshall, Mo.—Four former cowboys, tourists from Oklahoma, passed through Marshall in a touring car at the rate of sixty miles an hour. They were captured at Arrow Rock, eighteen miles east, brought back and left $50 in the city treasury.

All but their driver amused themselves toying dogs and chickens on their way through the city and in the country they made farmers sit up and take notice with their guns and lariats.

The thrashing of wheat was suspended until the cowboys were out of sight, but no effort was made to investigate further.

TOWN TO SELL POORHOUSE

Brewster, Mass., Hasn't Had Applicant to Enter It in Over a Year.

Worcester, Mass.—Poverty has become so completely a thing of the past in the town of Brewster, Mass., that the authorities have directed the town clerk to sell the poor farm and poor house to the highest bidder. There has not been an applicant for a place in the institution in more than a year, it is said. The town has about 700 inhabitants.

Petrified Melon Is Found

Clarksville, Tenn.—J. W. Taylor of Cunningham has brought here a well-developed petrified cantaloupe.

The form of the melon and markings indicate it is of the Rocky Ford variety, about one-half the usual size. It lies in a bed of stone half oval.

The stem and marks of the rind are perfect and there can be no doubt as to its being a genuine case of petrification.

WAR AID TO ARCHAEOLOGY

Many New Discoveries Are Unlikely, Owing to Italy's Occupation of Territory.

Rome.—The wealth of ancient relics dating from the days of Greek and Roman dominion over the Mediterranean, that is constantly being brought to light by Italy's occupation of Tripolitania, Cyrene, and the eastern islands of the Aegean has been indicated from time to time by writers for the press, but there is another period of history quite as fascinating which is being revealed—the epoch of the Crusaders.

And as though foreshadowing an excursion into Crete, the archaeological relics of that island, which recall the proudest years of the power of Venice, receive special notice. Nor should it be forgotten that the Cretans once held the field of Italy's present North African campaign, and left there monuments of their brief but complete dominion.

At Cyrene there are tombs built by the Greeks with the aid of the Egyptian slaves, which at the time of the Italian invasion, were used as dwellings by the Arabs. These tombs, half buried in the shifting sands, are perfect mines of archaeological treasures. The valley and side of the hill of Mahmoura, for example, are covered with these tombs, from which their latest living dwellers have been driven by the Italian soldiers. The great reservoir of the Greeks at Cyrene has also been uncovered and promises a rich harvest of antique treasures, which may cause much history to be rewritten.

At Rhodes, although the Colossus is no longer seen, its foundations have been uncovered under the mediaeval fortresses of St. Michael and St. Nicholas. But these works belong to the period when France held the island and the knights used it as a base of supply for the Third Crusade. In Rhodes there are castles where the coat of arms of French Crusaders can still be seen—the Montjoyes, the St. Denises, the Cardinal d'Aubusson, and Philippe de Villiers.

SWEET MUSIC TO HIS EARS

Orator's Revenge on Trousers That Had Proved Treacherous at a Most Important Time.

Uncle "Hank" Barnhart, who represents part of the state of Indiana in the lower house, shook the campfire out of his dress suit one evening in preparation for a public address. He was "booked for and discovered that his figure had grown too prosperous for the open-faced garb that had once been ample and comfortable. It was then too late to get another outfit, and Barnhart thought that by breathing only in the upper parts of his lungs he might avoid catastrophe.

About five minutes before he was going on the stage where the speaking was to take place, Barnhart heard, felt and otherwise became conscious of that lugubrious ripping action of trousers that one has outgrown. It was an exciting moment. There was no Retail Dress Suit agency in town, and no time to send out a hurry call to such a place if there had been. The best that Barnhart could do was to get a man to pin the hiatus together, and then murmur a prayer that no calamity should occur.

By standing sway-backed, Uncle Hank got through his part of the exercises without mishap. His perspiration glands were overtaxed, so great was his apprehension, but the pins did their work well, and when he retreated he did so in good order.

Then what do you suppose Barnhart did? He retired to a secluded corner back of the stage, raised himself to and touched his fingers to the floor without bending his knees. Again he heard a large fissure making its way up and down the seams in those commodious trousers.

"Rip, rip, rip," said Barnhart. "And see it I care!"

"Ah, but 'twas music," says Barnhart, telling about it, "to hear that low, ripping sound, knowing full well that there was no one around to see."

First Wireless Apparatus

As wireless telegraphy grips the imagination of men more and more by its ever growing wonders, so does the marvel increase that its inventor developed and achieved his epoch-making idea when he was in age but a schoolboy, expected to do no more than study his lessons and enjoy himself. Guglielmo Marconi studied at the universities of Bologna and Padua, and when only fifteen years old, on his father's estate near Bologna, Italy, plunged enthusiastically into the dreamland of electricity. In the course of the next few years he headed straight for one of his great mysteries, the so-called Hertzian waves, or electrical impulses which could travel through air without the use of a wire. In 1895 when he was only twenty years old, his advanced knowledge of this obscure subject inspired him with the theory that these waves could be sent out and received at will, and that year he had constructed the first wireless apparatus, whose efficiency astonished even his enthusiasts.—F. Minnurn Sammis in the Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Noted Men Plant Trees

Reforestation of the Capitol grounds by prominent statesmen is the latest fad at Washington. The old German custom of planting a tree every time one is destroyed has been inaugurated, and there is a rush among congressmen for planting privileges.

A purple beech that grew in northern New York, near the home of Vice-President Sherman now adorns the capitol grounds, near Delaware avenue and B street northeast, at the brow of the hill on the north drive.

Other public men, including Speaker Clark, former Speaker Cannon and a number of prominent candidates will be invited to plant trees, and there promises to be a lively arbor campaign. Among the trees that will be planted are the walnut, hickory and red oak, each man selecting the tree under which he loved to linger in his boyhood.

Superintendent Elliott Woods is providing photographs of the recent tree planting, to be filed away with the official records, and reforestation is now having its innings on the capitol grounds.—News Letter.

Writer's Cramp a Misnomer

Medical authorities now claim that "writer's cramp" and other similar states of apparent muscular paralysis are actually due, not to the tiring of the muscles, but to brain fag. It appears that the particular part of the brain which controls special combinations of muscle action, such as the movements of writing or the working of a telegraph key, tends to become more quickly exhausted in some individuals than in others. Such exhaustion leads to a state in which the brain is actually unable to send out its necessary messages to the hands and fingers to write, tap a key, hold a violin bow, etc. Furthermore, once the nerve cells, the "batteries" of the brain, get thoroughly run down, it is not easy to restore their energy. Here, therefore it has been supposed that all troubles of the kind were due simply to overworking of the muscles concerned.

Result of Investigation

A little six-year-old came to her grandfather with a trouble weighing on her mind.

"Aunt says the moon is made of green cheese, and I don't believe it?"

"Why not?"

"Because I have been looking in the Bible and found out that the moon is not made of green cheese, for the moon was made before the cow."

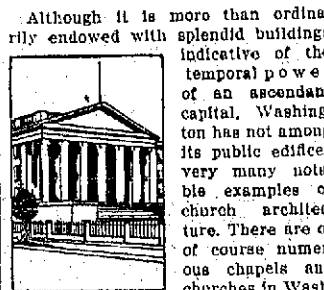

Cut Teeth From Girl's Throat

New York.—Miss Mary Crawley, unknown to herself, swallowed several closely bridged false teeth over a year ago. They lodged in her throat and caused her great pain. Unable to eat and wasting away, she went to a hospital where the X-ray located the cause. The girl was operated upon and the teeth extracted.

PLAN MANY CHURCHES

WASHINGTON IS SOON TO HAVE SOME NOTABLE EDIFICES.

Only Buildings in Capital Worthy of Mention Are Those Erected During the Decade Before and the Decade After the Revolution.

Although it is more than ordinarily endowed with splendid buildings indicative of the temporal power of an ascendant capital, Washington has not among its public edifices very many notable examples of church architecture. There are of course numerous chapels and churches in Washington. In fact a man may stand in any quarter of the city and see from a street corner two or three warbling places, but few of them are structures of imposing appearance.

Many capitals of the world are justly famed for their churches and for little else, so unless there is an uplift in this direction Washington will have to depend on its other glories for distinction. This deficiency, however, is keenly felt, and even now there is a movement afoot among all sects to beautify Washington churches.

The only churches in Washington at present worthy of mention are those built during the decade before and the decade after the Revolution.

Probably the most exquisite survival of these earlier periods of church building is old St. John's Episcopal Church, which stands just across Lafayette square from the White House. This is, indeed, a remarkable quarter from an architectural point of view. The historic square is lined with notable structures, among them the Commodore Decatur house, the John Hay house and the Arlington Hotel. Old St. John's itself is classic in type and follows closely the dictates of Inigo Jones. Its graceful portico, of the Roman Doric order, faces Sixteenth street, while its length extends along the square. Its belfry is the most typical feature about the edifice, its classic lines, pyramided to a spire, calling to mind the best of London steeples.

There are other churches in Washington belonging to the same period, but smaller and less noteworthy. One of 50 years later, however, is worthy mentioning, in that it is a remarkable example of church architecture, although built during a period of depression. It is the Cathedral of St. Dominic, a Catholic church in Southwest Washington, a little frequented section of the city. This church is the most perfect Gothic building in the city, and while not as ornate as Continental Gothic cathedrals, it is of a high plane of excellence. It is not among the churches shown to sightseers who come to Washington, however, and is seldom seen save by those who frequent it.

Another of the churches built in the "black walnut" period is Grace Church in Georgetown, which is contiguous to Washington and now a part of it. Grace Church is of red brick and Gothic. Its chief merit lies in a remarkable belfry, although the entire structure is unusually graceful.

Two notable churches, however, are now being erected by the advocates of better church architecture in Washington. The one which is to stand at the head of Washington's list of ecclesiastical edifices is the Cathedral of St. Peter and Paul, at Mount St. Alban, which overlooks the entire city. This cathedral, which is just rising above its foundations, will be of the most elaborate Gothic design. It will resemble York Minster, an Old World church of fame, pointing two towers high above a maze of flying buttresses and carved images of saints. The chapel of the Holy Nativity, a part of the cathedral, has already been dedicated, but the main cathedral will be nearly as long in building as the Cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York.

Another notable Washington church, now under construction is the First Church of Christ, Scientist, nearing completion, on Columbia Heights, a fashionable residence section of the city. This church is classic in design and is built on the lines of the Pantheon. It will be the most imposing church of its type in Washington. Equally as fine will be the Temple of the Scottish Rite, but that structure will not be completed for months and probably years to come.

This general movement toward better church architecture will, in the next decade, put Washington on a plane with other cities of its size as far as excellence of such edifices is concerned.

Work of Many Architects

A number of architects were employed at one time or another on the capitol. The first four were William Thornton, Stephen Hallet, George Hadfield and James Hoban. Nothing remains of the plans of the first two of these men. Hadfield was the most skillful, and continued to work after Benjamin Latrobe was put in charge. After the capitol was burned Latrobe made several improvements. He was succeeded by Charles Bulfinch of Boston, the first American born architect to work on the building. He practically completed it in 1826. Finally, twenty years later, Thomas U. Walter of Philadelphia added the dome and the extensions, the most beautiful and interesting portions of the structure.

SUPERINTENDENT LEE MAY RETIRE

Report Has it that He Will be Succeeded by a Western Man

With the railroad rumors that are coming fast and thick is the report that general superintendent C. E. Lee of the Boston and Maine railroad will retire before the end of the present month to be succeeded by a Mr. McMullen, a Western railroad man of much experience, who was formerly located at Seattle. However, nobody can be found at present who can or will give any inside information on this reported change to come.

ITEMS OF INTEREST TO NAVY YARD EMPLOYEES

Want the Collier by 15th

The department has ordered that the collier Mars be ready for sea by Sept. 15. The crew of the vessel say that the ship cannot sail before the 25th.

Sailors Cleaning the Dry Dock

For the first time in the history of the navy yard a crew of sailors were ordered to clean the dry dock after the docking of the North Carolina on Wednesday. With the navy several hundred men shy for service this crew cannot possibly be any drawing card for enlistments. The work was done by the men from the North Carolina who say they have done more work on other vessels than they have on their own since landing in port.

However the climax was reached they say when they were forced to handle work generally performed by yard workmen or prisoners.

Portsmouth Boy on Expedition

Surgeon Robert E. Hoyt formerly on duty at the Mare Island hospital, who has been stationed on the East coast for the last year has been transferred from the Michigan to duty with the marine expedition aboard the Prairie, his place on the former vessel being taken by Surgeon C. G. Smith of the Mississippi.—Vellojo Chronicle.

Going on the Collier

John Lynch of this city employed in the machinery division at the yard will sail on the collier Mars when the vessel leaves here to join the fleet. He will fill the position of oiler and will make a cruise to Italy where the collier follows the fleet. The Mars is expected to return in April next.

Marines at Rifle Range

Two squads of marines from the barracks, prison, and Southern are doing target practice at Wakefield. Several of the sharpshooters here will try to make the crack team to shoot at Indian Head, Md.

The Herald Hears

VOTE FOR THE COMMISSIONERS

Old Board of County Officers Are Renominated

At Tuesday's primary all county officers were renominated. Sheriff Spinney, Solicitor Guphill, Treasurer Parker and Register Green had no contestants on the official ballot, and Mr. Currier's candidacy did not endanger those of Register Scott.

For the three commissionerships there were seven candidates and their approximate votes were as follows:
Norman H. Beane 2200
George A. Carlisle 1600
